

Newsletter
May 2004

Friendly Systems Brings First “All in One” Software to Georgia Small Businesses

Friendly Systems is the local company that can offer the new reality of “all-in-one” software to Georgia businesses. Designed by small business owners for small business owners, Everest is quite possibly the only business software that companies with from 10 to 100 employees might ever need at a price that they can afford.

iCode, a software company based in Chantilly, VA, has developed the world's first all-in-one software solution for small and mid-size businesses to help them serve their customers better and more profitably than many of the largest companies in the world. iCode's Everest is a fully-integrated, award-winning business management software solution – that's affordable, quick-to-implement, and easy-to-use – designed from the ground up to automate all departments of a small business including accounting, inventory control, service, e-commerce, sales force automation, CRM, point of sale, wireless connectivity, and more - all in real-time.

Serving Georgia small businesses since 1982, Friendly Systems is the software reseller and service provider that can bring iCode to life for area businesses. Friendly Systems provides the services and expertise to help companies to have business information that works™. Friendly Systems offers an experienced team who form alliances with their end users in order to provide ultimate freedom from experts. It's your business information – Friendly systems can actually help you to make it work for you.

Friendly Systems strives for long lasting, friendly business relationships built on mutual trust and respect. Since 1982 Friendly Systems, Inc. has found that businesses appreciate conscientious, experienced personnel who can implement business software solutions and who stand behind their work Friendly Systems is an iCode Certified Everest Partner, as well as an Authorized Partner of Best Software. Additional information on Friendly Systems and Everest software can be found online at www.friendlysystems.com.

Friendly Systems announces the addition of a new product line to our already fine list of vendors.

We became authorized resellers for iCode's Everest Advanced product in January of this year and are pleased to announce our first Everest Advanced customer is Apego, Inc.

Apego, Inc. spent two years looking for a fully integrated solution for their distribution business that tied in Inventory Management with multiple bin locations and the ability to handle matrices of size and color, Purchasing, CRM, Accounting with foreign currency translation, Payroll, Sales Order Processing and a Web Store.

Their system will be linked to the Starship Shipping system, allowing seamless shipping information from their orders to be printed on packing slips and shipping manifests.

Everest Advanced uses Microsoft's SQL Server database. Their accounting data will be converted from Quickbooks by Friendly Systems.

Congratulations, We'll Miss You

Congratulations to Reagan Smith, who has received her marketing MBA from Georgia State University. Reagan interned with Friendly Systems during the spring semester, and was instrumental in the new look of our website.

www.friendlysystems.com

Even more amazingly, she was able to sift through the ideas of a bunch of very opinionated people and arrive at a focused marketing plan we could all (mostly) agree on!

Reagan, thank you for all your hard work, and we know you will do well in all your future endeavors.