FSI Now Authorized for e-business & SQL

Friendly Systems has recently added certifications for two more products from Best: MAS 200 for SQL Server, and the e-business manager for MAS 90 and MAS 200.

MAS 200 for SQL Server uses Microsoft SQL Server as the database, while keeping the same MAS 200 user interface. SQL Server provides increased scalability, as well as tools to improve the speed of complex Crystal Reports.

Web Resources in MAS 90 & MAS 200

Did you know that with MAS 90 and/or MAS 200 version 3.6x you have a host of web resources available at your fingertips? Best Software has incorporated a web browser within MAS 90 and MAS 200. With your launcher set to detail view, you will see a section just above the normal display of folders with icons labeled Welcome, Web Resources and Business Insights.

The Welcome section allows access to such things as What's New in this release, a Tutorial and Getting Started Guide that shows the features of the software and allows the user to learn various procedures.

The Web Resources section gives one access to information about available modules for your MAS 90 and MAS 200 system, new features, ability to access information and links for Web-based services, such as credit checking and package tracking, and on-line support directly from Best Software for service packs and patches to known issues.

The Business Insights section allows the end user to setup and display, as a web page, specific reports. Business Insights provides a list of reports to select from.

Business Insights can be customized for each user, or even turned off entirely. Reports can be set to automatically perform an update every 6, 12, 24 hours, or you manually perform an update at anytime. The date and time are stamped at the bottom of every report.

So the next time you're looking at getting information quickly and reliably every time, look into one of the above sections for information.
